A PARADE IN THE BUSINESS DISTRICT was one of the highlights of the launching of the Marion County Community Chest campaign, Tuesday. The parade was headed by city police and firemen, and the Harding High School Band. The day was designated as Business Men's Red Feather Day, with teams, manned by members of the various service clubs, making solicitations in the downtown business places.

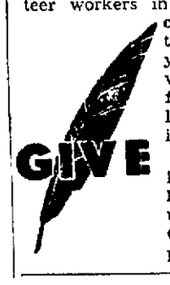
The several hundred volunteer workers in the city and county got off to a good start yesterday and will make their first reports at a luncheon meeting Friday.



Campaign headquarters have been set up at the Y.M.-C.A. where reports are filed and information on the drive and agencies making up the chest may be obtained., Headquarters telephones are 2-3055 and 2-3058.

Charles Osterholt, who heads the solicitation of national firms reported the following firms 100 percent in participation:

Hit Ethics Of Men In Government

Senate Group Calls For Code of Conduct, Tough Bribery Laws

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—A Senate subcommittee declared today that some administrative officials and Congress members have failed to "comply with decent standards of conduct" in running their offices and in political campaigns. It did not name any.

In calling for tougher bribery laws and a strict code of official conduct, however, it said the ethical standards of public officials are "probably higher than those prevailing in business and other walks of life."

"The clever man who makes a 'fast buck' gets a certain amount of acclaim, provided he makes enough of them," the report by a sub-committee on ethics said.

"The political trickster frequently can claim his rewards—if he wins. There is tolerance in American life for unscrupulous methods which bring immediate rewards, even though those methods, if they should become universal, would destroy the very society in which they are tolerated."

Quotes Old Quatrain

The report, written under direction of Senator Douglas (D-Ill), the subcommittee chairman, urged Americans to beware of conditions described by this old English quatrain it quoted:

"The law locks up both man and woman

"Who steals the goose from off the common,

"But lets the greater felon loose

"Who steals the common from the goose."

The subcommittee denounced what it termed "the growth of influence peddling" in Washington and suggested as one possible cause:

"The exodus of higher civil servants and officials from the government while the political party under which they have worked for many years continues in charge of the administration."

The report was signed by the full subcommittee, Douglas and Senators Neely (D-WVa), Humphrey (D-Minn), Aiken (R-Vt) and Morse (R-Ore). Aiken filed a statement of "additional views" declaring "laws alone will never improve the ethical and moral standards in government."

In Office Too Long

"The present state of affairs is the inevitable result of one party being in office oto long," Aiken wrote. He urged the electorate to follow the adage that "a new broom sweeps clean."

In a prior report the subcommittee had approved a bill to create a commission of 15 distinguished citizens from government and private life to make a two-year study and propose a code of ethics for public servants.

The new report endorsed this idea but proposed also:

1. A stopgap ethics code calling for summary dismissal of

Penalty for Neglect and Abuse

Sentence Parents Of 8; Children Taken from Them

A Marion man and his wife were sentenced to terms in the workhouse at Columbus today when they pleaded guilty to charges of beating and neglecting their eight children.

Harold Amos of Cottage street was sentenced to one year in the Columbus workhouse.

His wife was sentenced to six months in the Columbus workhouse for women.

In addition the custody of their children was taken from them for life. They are to be placed in foster homes.

Mrs. Amos was charged with neglecting her children and not providing proper medical care and sanitary facilities for them.

Harold Amos was charged with beating three of his children with a leather belt in a cruel and abusive manner. A second charge of neglect was also filed against him.

The sentences were imposed in Marion County Juvenile Court by Judge Edward J. Ruzzo shortly before noon today. Both parents pleaded guilty after the charges had been read to them.

Those testifying against the couple included Juvenile Officer Virgil Campbell, Deputy Sheriff Elmer Ullom, and Mrs. Marjorie Sechrist, juvenile court probation officer.

Deputy Ullom said he and Officer Campbell went to the Amos home after it was discovered that an 11-year-old boy had been found with his back bruised and cut. There they found the home in a dirty condition and the children living in filth.

He said they found the baby, four months old, lying in a pasteboard box and that it appeared very sick.

Boy Nervous

Officer Campbell said the 11-year-old boy, when first questioned, appeared very nervous and told officers he had been whipped by several other boys.

A check of this story proved false and under further investigation the boy admitted his father had beat him with a belt and that two of his sisters had been witnesses to the beating.

Campbell said they found the two girls and they had also been beaten. One girl was bruised black from her buttocks to her neck where she had been struck.

Cuts Discovered

The 11-year-old who had come to the attention of the officer had nine cuts on his back where he had been struck with a belt buckle besides the bruise marks where the leather belt had left its mark.

Mrs. Sechrist testified as to the condition of the baby. She said she had known the baby had been born and that nothing was said about it when she arrived at the home.

She asked Mrs. Amos where it was and she pointed to the box on the couch.

Signs of Neglect

She said the baby had apparently not been washed for days. A bottle of sour milk was in the crib with it and it was covered with flies.

She said the baby apparently was suffering from malnutrition. She said it had weighed nine pounds when born and weighed only six pounds when police officers found it.

The child was taken to a physician for examination and the baby was ordered to the Marion City hospital for medical treatment. It was reported in "poor" condition today but some improvement had been noted since yesterday, hospital attaches said.

The belt which Amos had used to beat his children was entered as evidence in the hearing. Amos

Spend Night In Yard Of W. Va. Prison

Enter Cells After 18-Hour Defiance; Protest Filthy Cook

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 17—(AP)—An 18-hour revolt of 1,300 prisoners at the West Virginia State Penitentiary ended without casualties at 9:45 a.m. today.

State Police Maj. R. W. Boyles suddenly appeared on the steps of the administration building leading into the two-acre exercise yard where the prisoners had milled all night.

He yelled: "I have a message for you."

"Get on the loud-speadker," called some of the prisoners.

Warden Orel J. Skeen's voice came on the prison public-address system.

"If you men care to go in your cells," he said, "the doors are open. And when you get in, we'll arrange to feed you. We can't feed you where you are."

There was a surge for the door. There were some scattered yells among the leaders: "No, no, no."

The main body of the cold and hungry convicts paid no attention to them.

Leaders Join Rush

Even the leaders joined the rush. They apparently feared they might be identified if they held out.

When the big break came in the tense revolt, some of the prisoners were picking up and eating nuts which had been scattered in the yard for squirrels

Only a short time earlier the prisoners had shouted defiance from the cold, foggy exercise yard.

During the night, gunfire had driven back their rushes on the grocery storeroom and the power plant.

Fifty heavily armed state troopers marched into their midst soon after dawn. The 1,300 rioters fell back, shouting profane abuse at the policemen.

The troopers stood in ranks and took it for 15 minutes then moved in small groups to guard posts around the edge of the exercise yard.

They had been called in from all over the state to augment the 90 guards. Moundsville is on the Ohio River 12 miles below wheeling.

Warden Orel J. Skeen had predicted the convicts would be back in their cells by tonight.

Protest Cook Was Filthy

All but 400 of the prison's 1,700 inmates joined the mutiny. They protested a prison cook was filthy. They said they had too little clothing. They refused to come in from the exercise yard last night for the evening meal.

They haven't eaten since yesterday noon. The temperature got down to 47 last night.

The guards on the 40-foot walls fired over their heads so no one was hurt when about 200 of the prisoners rushed the boiler room and commissary with knives and broken scissors.

A few marched in front of the

Both Sides Rush Troops To Suez Canal

British Commander Says His Garrison Will Stand Ground

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today the United States supports the stand of the British in upholding their position in the Suez Canal area against Egyptian pressure.

CAIRO, EGYPT, Oct. 17—(AP)—Both Britain and Egypt rushed reinforcements to the riot-torn Suez Canal area today as the British commander pledged his troops would stand fast against Egyptian efforts to drive them out.

In London the foreign office announced fresh troops are being sent to bolster the British garrison along the canal, where at least seven persons were killed and scores injured yesterday when British forces fired on rioting and looting Egyptians.

The British commander of the garrison, Lt. Gen. George Erskine, told his men in a broadcast last night "we are not going to be turned out, forced out or knocked out" of the canal area.

"We are not looking for trouble," he said, "but we shall deal with it quite firmly if we meet it."

Egypt's Premier Mustapha El Nahas Pasha in a press statement urged his people to remain calm. The rioting, he said, "could stand in the way of our national aspirations."

A report from the canal city of Ismailia said 200 Egyptian police were being dispatched by special train from Cairo to reinforce the 1,500 Egyptian police already there and that 300 others were being sent to Port Said. Yesterday's violence centered in these two cities.

An interior ministry communique issued here said seven persons were killed in the clashes at the two canal points. In Ismailia Egyptian officials last night had reported 11 of their countrymen dead—seven there and four at Port Said. Other reports from Port Said put the death toll there at five.

Deny Base To Reds

U.N. Troops Near Kumsong On Central Front Drive

U. S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Oct. 17—(AP)—Allied troops today smashed to within three miles of Kumsong and denied the use of that central Korean base to the Reds.

American 24th Division infantrymen sprang a trap on an estimated 800 Chinese on the highest peak guarding the approaches to Kumsong.

"We're going in and clean them out," said Lt. Col. Albert L. Thornton of Birmingham, Ala.

U. S. troops and Colombian infantrymen began the assault. Artillery covered them from newly captured flanking hills.

More than 40 hills have been captured in the five-day advance seven miles along a 22-mile front. Allied artillery moved up to strategic peaks where it could blast Kumsong, the main Communist bastion on the central front.

To the east, the Republic of Korea (ROK) Eighth Division drove against 2,000 to 3,000-foot ridges in an effort to keep pace with the central push.

In the west the American First Cavalry Division again hit the tough Chinese defense line northwest of Yonchon. Every yard

Men Wanted For Kidnaping Held in Lima

LIMA, Oct. 17—(AP)—Two Pennsylvania men — wanted in connection with a reported kidnaping—gave themselves up last night to Lima police.

Police identified the men as Joseph F. Fagley, 36, of Bridgeport, Pa., and Frank D. Moser, 32, of Conshohocken, Pa.

Joseph E. Purvis, acting agent-in-charge of the Cleviland FBI office, said Fagley and Moser were wanted in the kidnaping of Albert E. Wilkinson of West Conshohocken, Pa., Oct. 9.

Purvis said the men would be taken to Toledo for a preliminary hearing and then to Pennsylvania.

Fagley and Moser walked into Lima police station last night. They told police they had just heard they were wanted on a federal kidnaping warrant. One of the men said he had a telephone call from his wife.

Police said the men said they accompanied Wilkinson from Conshohocken to Beaver Dam, O., about six miles north of Lima. They said Wilkinson slipped away from them while they ate in a restaurant. They said they come to Lima and found factory jobs. Both men said they were en route to Alaska.

Allies Say Reds Up To Old Delay Tricks

MUSAN, Korea, Oct. 17—(AP)—The Allies declared today the Communists "are up to their old tricks of delaying" renewal of Korean truce talks.

"The Reds intend to make the going as sticky as possible," Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said in a Tokyo release.

The statement was issued a few hours after Ridgway's headquarters reported United Nations and Communist liaison officers had made "considerable progress" toward preparing for new armistice negotiations.

Liaison officers met twice Wednesday in Panmunjom within sight of Allied shell explosions on a hillside in no-man's-land.

Would Open All-Out War

Negotiating With Reds Useless, Says MacArthur

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 17—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur declared today "you cannot 'profitably negotiate with Communists" and he called for the use of greater military power in the Korean war.

In a ringing attack on the administration's military policy, the ousted five-star general told the American Legion convention:

"We negotiate and negotiate and negotiate, never seeming to learn that you cannot profitably negotiate with Communists any more than you can with any other type of malefactor in civilized society.

"The only persuasion that will move them is the resistance to their abusive pressure by adequate counter-pressure."

The general did not call for a break-off in the Kaesong truce talks, but he left it clear he puts no faith in them and would open all-out war against the Reds in the Far East as the best way to get an agreement.

There had been some speculation that MacArthur would mention the presidential candidacy of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. But the general made no mention of Taft or the coming presidential election although he assailed the Truman administration policies.

Other highlights of the MacArthur address included:

1. A charge that he (MacArthur) had "unquestionably wrecked" a secret plan to let Formosa fall to the Communists and permit Red China to enter the United Nations.

2. A charge that there has been a "startling and dangerous shift" in basic U. S. military policy which forces the armed forces to "soften our blows and send men into battle with neither promise nor hope of victory.

Could Shelve Bill

Next Move Up To Senate After Tax Hike Rejection

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—The stinging, unexpected rejection of a $5,732,000,000 tax increase by the House set the administration groping today for a solution to a potentially serious national budget problem.

Leaders' plans to adjourn Congress Saturday until the new year were threatened by yesterday's surprise development.

The next move is up to the Senate, which now can say whether or not there will be a tax increase this year. If it doesn't accede to the House request for a new conference to try to work out differences, there'll be no tax bill. That might—unless the tax hike finally approved were made retroactive—deprive the treasury of something like half a billion dollars a month in increased revenues.

In advance of a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee, set for 10 a.m., there were strong indications another effort would be made to reach an agreement. The puzzle was: what kind of a tax boost would be acceptable to the House . . . and the Senate?

The bill under preparation nearly nine months was tossed aside summarily by the House yesterday in a half-hour rollcall, with administration leaders hardly more astounded by the outcome than the group which put across the 203 to 157 coup.

Winning Side

On the winning side were 139 Republicans and 64 Democrats. The minority which supported the bill included 122 Democrats, 34 Republicans and one Independent.

This was not the usual coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats which has become familiar in recent years. The Democrats who opposed the bill are, in the main, representatives of northern and big-city districts. Most southerners went along with the administration.

The leaders were baffled by the factors which caused the upset. The volume of "no" votes swelled swiftly as the rollcall went along. Some of those who voted against the bill confessed later they hadn't anticipated the actual outcome.

Leading Democrats trying to analyze the vote speculated that a great many members simply oppose any tax increase at this time, and that others believe the boosts called for by the compromise bill were inequitable and poorly balanced.

Thus any new tax conference would face a difficult problem in resolving such conflicting interests. Rep. Mills (D-Ark), one of the House conferees, remarked: "It would be difficult to write a bill that would satisfy a man who didn't want to vote for a tax bill."

Yesterday's action by the House did not kill the bill. It did set things back exactly to the stage reached weeks ago when the Senate returned the original $7,200,000,000 House increase. It revised that bill down to $5,400,000,000. Conference committee action upped this to $5,732,000,000, the figure voted on yesterday.

Chairman Doughton (D-N C) of the House Ways and Means Committee moved immediately to ask the Senate for a new conference. The House agreed and the same

Fire Damages Auction House On Mill Street

Discarded Cigaret Blamed for Blaze Costing Over $3,000

Damage estimated at $3,000 to $4,000 resulted from a fire which burned for 45 minutes last night in the Mill Street Auction House at 123 East Mill street.

The fire started when some unidentified person discarded a cigaret in a rubish container at the rear of the building, according to Fire Chief Sifritt. Flames entered the building at the southeast corner and spread along the rear wall, scorching and burning new and used furniture stored in the one-floor building.

The building was constructed about 40 years ago of wood covered with sheet metal and has been rented by Clyde Wilson, proprietor of the auction company, from Hugo Malo for six years.

Mr. Wilson also operates the Wilson Furniture Co. at 135 East Mill street, and was in his apartment above the store when the fire started. The two buildings are separated by an alley.

Discovered At 10:40

The alarm was turned in at 10:40 last night by members of Women of the Moose who were meeting in the Moose Hall. The side of the Moose Hall and the rear of the auction building are connected with a frame roof, under which trash barrels and rubbish are kept.

Firemen from the Central Fire station put out the fire in 41 minutes and were able to prevent

Marion Milk Price Raised

The price of milk in Marion has been increased one-half cent a quart.

Effective Monday the price of regular milk was raised to 21 cents and homogenized milk to 22 cents.

Representatives of Marion dairy companies said the increase brings the price of milk into line with that of other communities near here.

The higher prices were made necessary to cover the cost of increased payments made to farmers for raw milk, dairy representatives said.

The price of whipping and coffee cream has also been increased approximately one cent per half pint. The cost of whipping cream is now 44 cents and the cost of the coffee cream is now 22 cents per half pint.

Here's a Recipe for Special Sunday Dinner

THE HIGHER cost of living needn't put your meals in the doldrums. Even your piggy bank can yield a party without groaning when you team penny-saving dishes. Take a pork shoulder, for instance, stuff with corn bread dressing add molasses-glazed apples to the menu, and you'll have an extra-special meal that is extra-kind to your budget. Better keep the recipe where you can find it quickly—you'll want to call on it frequently for those traditional Sunday dinners.

PORK SHOULDER ROAST WITH CORN BREAD DRESSING

3 to 4-lb. pork shoulder roast (boned for stuffing)
2½ cups corn bread crumbs
2 T diced onion
¼ cup raisins
1½ t salt
¼ t pepper
½ t celery seed
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup water

Dice 2 tablespoons pork fat (trimmed from roast) and add to corn bread crumbs along with remaining ingredients. Toss lightly to mix. Fill pocket in roast with dressing. Tie roast with string in several places. Place on rack in an open roasting pan, fat side up. Roast in a slow oven (325° F.). Remove pork roast from pan and make gravy with drippings, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Corn Bread: Sift 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup sifted enriched flour, ¼ cup sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt into medium-sized bowl. Add 1 egg, 1 cup milk and ¼ cup shortening. Beat with rotary egg beater until smooth, about 1 minute. Do not over-beat. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Glazed Apples: Bake apples as usual. Make a hot molasses sauce by combining ½ cup milk, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup molasses and ½ teaspoon vanilla; simmer 10 minutes. Pour over apples.

West Towne Merchants' Assoc. Formed

Art Moore Named President Of Business Group

Merchants whose business establishments are located on West Center street between Garden street and Park boulevard have formed the West Towne Merchants' Association.

Officers of the group are Art Moore of the L. and K. Sandwich Shop and Drive-in, president; Wilbur Shover of the Shover Television and Radio Service, vice president; and Mrs. Evelyn Dane of the Marion Cycle Store, secretary and treasurer.

The association has been in the forming process for more than five weeks. The member merchants are working together to better business conditions in the western part of Marion. Regular meetings will be held by the group to plan a program of development for the area and to attract more business to that section.

Sponsor Jubilee

The first project of the group is sponsorship of the West Towne Jubilee which is now under way. The jubilee will be climaxed by a special two-day program Monday and Tuesday nights.

Both programs will be held in the parking lot at the L. & K. Sandwich Shop and the West Towne Branch of the National City Bank.

Monday night's program will consist of a talent show of young actors within the 50-mile shopping radius of Marion. The show will be given on a specially constructed stage at the parking lot. Following the talent show, the Chuck Wagon Pals, a local hillbilly band, will play for square dancing from 9 to 11.

Tuesday Program

On Tuesday, the Martinaires Orchestra of Marion will play for an outdoor dance and a vaudeville stage show will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. During the evening prizes will be awarded by the groups of merchants.

Climaxing the two-day windup will be the formal opening of the West Towne Branch drive-in bank. It will be open for business by the National City Bank of Marion Monday.

In an effort to beautify the area and attract new business a permanent 10-foot-high water fountain has been set up in the L. & K. parking lot. The three-tiered fountain will be illuminated during the two-day program.

In 1924-25 the Institute of Agricultural Engineering, Oxford, England, investigated the performance of windmills as a means of generating electricity.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Most Common Type of Atomic Bomb Injury

Vague fears are always the most terrorizing. We have all heard so much of the terrors of the atom bomb that we tend to shudder at the very though, then thrust it out of mind as quickly as possible.

A better course, since we all know that the atomic bomb is a reality, would be to consider specifically what injuries it is capable of inflicting and to learn what may be done to treat them.

One of the most prevalent injuries resulting from the bombs dropped over Japan was burns. Severe burns were found in from 65 to 85 percent of the casualties in the Japanese atomic bombing. Burns occur more frequently from atomic bombing than from any other type of war agent.

There are two types of burns. The flash burns occur at the bomb burst. This type of burn is caused by the tremendous heat released by the bomb and may spread as far as two and one-half miles from the point of explosion. It usually involves only one side of a person's body, but causes severe destruction of the skin tissues involved.

The flame burn is of a deeper type, but is less damaging to the tissues. It is most often caused by burning buildings following a bombing, or the burning of clothing due to the intensity of the heat.

In these types of burns, torn clothing should be loosened, and large, detachable debris removed from the skin. No effort, however, should be made to clean the burned area.

Sterile dressings should be applied with slight pressure at the earliest possible moment. It is usually better to dress the burn at the site of the injury than to remove the patient to a hospital.

The burn-dressing should be a good one, since it should not be changed for a few days at least. A layer of petrolatum or lanoline should be applied over the skin before the dressing is put on. Sterilized machinists' wastes make an excellent pressure dressing before the final gauze is applied.

The pain of flash burns is extreme and usually is relieved by application of the dressings. However, it may be necessary to give some sedative if the pain is too severe.

Shock is paramount with atomic burns, and anyone receiving a burn of over 20 percent of the body's surface may be in shock. A person in this condition should be treated by strict bed rest, and the giving of fluids, such as blood plasma, into the veins as soon as possible. This is best carried out in a hospital.

Burns of the nose, throat, and larynx may occur. All patients with this type of burn should be placed in a hospital for immediate observation since, very often, if the damage is too severe, a new opening in the windpipe will have to be made as an emergency measure in order that the patient may be able to breathe.

Taft Doubts Wife Will Be Able To Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Martha Taft is reconciled to her husband running for the Republican presidential nomination, Senator Taft said yesterday as he announced his candidacy.

Mrs. Taft has been ill for almost a year and a half. The senator was home in Cincinnati last weekend and presumably discussed his plans with Mrs. Taft.

Taft told reporters his wife's health is "improving." But he said he doubts she will be able to take an active part in his campaign, as she did in the early stages of his 1950 campaign for re-election to the Senate.

Taft First

WHETHER or not Senator Taft went after the Republican presidential nomination for 1952, someone was going to go after it on his platform of vigorous opposition to the Roosevelt-Truman New-Fair Deal.

Senator Taft has decided to use the platform himself. He will seek the nomination. He will ask for delegates pledged to support him in the party convention next June.

He will do this because in politics there is an inexorable logic which produces the right man at the right time to join the major issues and force a decision. Taft is the right man for 1952.

This will be the third time Senator Taft has sought the Republican presidential nomination. In 1940, his bid was premature; the public was not ready to act on it. War had broken out in Europe. Domestic issues were confused.

In 1948, after he had stepped aside in 1944 to give John W. Bricker a clear field, Senator Taft sought the nomination a second time. Whether his bid again was premature that year, or whether the delegates merely were slow in realizing that Thomas E. Dewey was not the right leader to force a decision is a moot question. Taft was denied the nomination.

But in 1952, even though Senator Taft again may be denied the Republican nomination, there will be no room for doubt about the timing of his bid.

It will be the optimum year.

He demonstrated dramatically in his Ohio re-election campaign in 1950 that voters can be inspired to work and vote for his political success.

He proved beyond any doubt that his hard-hitting brand of factual campaigning packs the only kind of wallop which can offset the slippery slanders and bait-dangling of handout-state propagandists.

Senator Taft convinced the skeptics in his own party that voters really do prefer traditional American principles to creeping socialism.

He removed all room for doubt about the consequences of swearing off "me-tooism" as a substitute for old-fashioned debate in his Ohio campaign.

Senator Taft believes Americans expect the two-party system to give them a choice when they go to the polls. As the ablest leader of the loyal opposition in Congress, he has helped to keep the two-party system in working condition, against the day when it would be restored to full standing in a national election.

He believes it should be given full standing in 1952 and that he is the logical man to do the job.

His announcement that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination will step up the rate of speculation about other possible contenders. He has taken that into consideration. But it also will step up the pressure inside the Democratic coalition, which now is reaping the whirlwind of an era or errors. Senator Taft has taken that into consideration, too.

He has only one fixed objective in politics—to preserve individual liberty and self-government from the political paternalists riding hell-bent for statism. The real impact of his announcement, despite its importance to Republicans, is on the White House.

President Truman and the leaders of his coalition know now that the man they will have to beat in 1952, unless his own party turns him down, will be the man the New-Fair Dealers never have beaten yet—Robert A. Taft of Ohio. It is the worst news they could hear in conjunction with dismal bulletins of epidemic corruption inside their own organizations.

Anyone Set Out a Flare?

ANY citizen who tried to keep track of all the hearings and investigations in Washington would find it a full-time job. The high points which get into newspapers and are described on radio only suggest how much information is being dug up and picked over in the national capital.

There never has been so much of it before, nor has the search for information ever been conducted in an atmosphere of such deep cynicism. Even those who try to put the best light they can find on government, for the sake of popular confidence, admit this is one of the lowest points ever reached in public morale.

In this respect, it is something like the interval after a train wreck. The results of the disaster are so obvious and so numerous that the survivors are numbered by the repetition of shocks.

But in the meantime it occurs to some one of them to wonder if anyone has set out a flare to ward off the danger of still more trains being piled on top of those already wrecked.

While Washington is sorting through the bits and pieces of mistakes made months and years ago, what is being done to avert the same kind of mistakes in the present and future?

The Taft Announcement

By David Lawrence

Political Wisdom of Move Questioned

WASHINGTON

THE POLITICAL wisdom of Senator Taft in announcing formally his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the presidency will be questioned by many experienced political observers. For it breaks a precedent in political history when a candidate announces himself as much as nine months before the actual convention, especially when he is in the lead anyway.

One thing it does is concentrate immediately the heavy artillery of opposition against him in his own party, and it starts the 1952 campaign much sooner than it normally would get under way.

LAWRENCE

There are no political advantages in an early announcement. It is true that the candidate who is out in front tends to draw "band wagon" strength—those delegates who have been on the fence and are likely to go with the crowd the moment they see the crowd heading in the same direction. But as against this is the fact that no delegates are so easily lost, if the tide suddenly turns, as those with loosley held affiliations.

IF THE PURPOSE of the early announcement idea is to deflate the Eisenhower boom, the effort could easily misfire. Usually in fighting against a candidate, the best tactics are to begin building up a potential rival. With a Taft announcement, Eisenhower's friends will redouble their energies. Senator Taft's strategy in the present circumstances should have been to wait out the Eisenhower move. The friends of the general have been saying that around the first of the year he would be announcing his receptiveness to a Republican nomination. If such a statement were made, it would immediately present the issues of a contest that would overflow into the campaign itself, particularly if General Eisenhower were the nominee eventually.

Thus the things already said about the Eisenhower candidacy among the Taft supporters are indicative of what the Democrats themselves will be saying if the general is nominated. The point will be made that General Eisenhower, in his famous letter in 1948, said that a military man was not suited by training or qualifications to be President and that only in a grave emergency should a soldier accept a draft for the Presidency.

THIS ARGUMENT in its entirety would be turned against General Eisenhower. Opponents would agree not only that a military man is not suitable but that in an emergency it is even more dangerous to accept the leadership of a military man, because this would introduce the "man on "horseback" psychology into government at a critical moment. With the record that already has been made by President Truman and his henchmen in the MacArthur case, where the false issue was raised that "civilian supremacy" versus military rule was at stake, it would be even easier for the Democrats to harp on that same issue if General Eisenhower were named. If the civilian process, they will say, is so devoid of quality that only in the military can leadership be found, then it is a reflection on the whole civilian process.

So far as union labor is concerned, it has been traditionally opposed to the military. This is a psychological attitude which has come as a result of labor disputes in which governors of various states in past history have ordered out the militia to restrain the violence of strikers. The mere thought of a man in uniform going into the White House is enough to send shivers of fear up and down the backs of labor leaders. So they would join eagerly in any Administration crusade against Eisenhower based on the civilian-rule issue.

ALL IN ALL, Senator Taft will not be beaten for the nomination by General Eisenhower if some of the politically minded in the Taft and anti-Taft factions have their way. For even among the backers of Eisenhower are some astute politicians who would quickly transfer their Eisenhower delegates to someone else if they saw an opportunity to defeat Taft and name a "dark horse." By maintaining silence almost to the time of the convention, General Eisenhower would be assisting the anti-Taft clements to maintain their organization. To take himself out of the race in January would give the Taft boom further impetus.

But when Senator Taft commits himself now, he permits an attack to be started against him from inside and outside his party which it is wholly unnecessary to generate, especially since his own campaign is making substantial progress anyway. It was not expected that the Ohio senator or his managers would make the blunder of an early announcement, because it's like sending a copy of your signals and your best to the other football team a month before the big game. But evidently the Taft managers have determined an early announcement is the best way to head off an Eisenhower boom, which could be the most dangerous form of attack so far as the nomination is concerned.

Yank on the Crank

By TRUMAN TWILL

AS A RUN-OF-MINE figure wizard and money handler who moves his lips when he counts, I am following with keen interest those bank embezzling scandals in the Pennsylvania-West Virginia area.

When this was written, the total had reached a million dollars filched by five bank employes, with indications that one thing would keep leading to another until more funny business had been unearthed.

The reason for my interest in this case goes back many years, to the time when circumstances first made it evident that the old-fashioned monetary system which depended on money had gone out with the kerosene lamp and frugality.

The circumstances consisted of what was happening in my own family, which handled no money other than that required for petty cash payments. Everything else was done by addition and subtraction on pieces of paper.

When the breadwinner was paid, the transaction was handled by means of a piece of paper bearing figures which indicated how much he would have been paid without both voluntary and involuntary deduction of sums for various purposes.

This piece of paper was handed over to the family bookkeeper who handed it over to a functionary at the bank, who wrote some figures in the book. The breadwinner received nothing of value and possessed nothing of value, except petty cash.

The same thing is true on a vast scale in nearly all so-called monetary transactions. Except for an occasional handling of gold or silver bullion and exchange of coins, there is no money transacted. The entire operation is conducted by means of figures scratched on pieces of valueless paper.

It would not be unthinkable to live a lifetime without handling any money at all. In fact, one of the oddities of the very rich is that they sometimes have no money—nothing but the power to write very large sums on pieces of paper and to have the pieces of paper treated with respect.

It is small wonder that in this kind of setup there can be such a thing as seven digits missing for years without a general alarm. Your old-time bank robber who scooped up loose cash and tried to make his getaway through a gauntlet of determined patriots would be an anachronism in this new multi-digit setup.

Your streamlined modern robber learns how to run a calculating machine, then makes off with a headful of ciphers which he hides in an unused conscience. When he wants a cipher, he pulls a crank or presses a button.

The unsuspecting public, which moves its lips when it counts, like me, learns it has been mulcted out of something that is coming to it and would be hopping mad about the whole thing, except that it can be patched up by pulling more cranks and popping out some more ciphers to take the place of the ones which have turned up missing.

It used to be that the great American dream was to have a penny-pinching uncle die and leave you his estate. The only chance to strike it rich any more is for someone to give an extra yank on the crank and spill a line of ciphers. No man can keep a close check on all those ciphers any more. There's a zillion where the last zillion came from.

Daily Bible Thought

This is one world indeed. The finger of God touches the humblest of his creatures that form a part of the universal creating. God's care extends to his humblest creatures as well as to his very sons: "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? And yet one of them shall not fall to the ground without your father."—Matt 10:29.

No Restrictions on Him

The Right of Revolution

By George E. Sokolsky

CORLISS LAMONT once made the point:

"Can a Democratic government logically permit totalitarian parties to advocate the violent overthrow of the state? I am convinced that the answer is 'yes' and that the right to advocate revolution is a basic constitutional liberty in a democracy."

If the right to advocate change is inherent in freedom, so is the right to oppose change. This truth, Communists and civil libertarians often choose to disregard.

Yet, freedom is not a one-way street upon which only those who are in dissent may walk.

SOKOLSKY

This Corliss Lamont acknowledges. He wrote:

"No doubt practically every one here today would agree with me that there exists in the United States the necessary political machinery for peaceful and democratic change in either a conservative or a radical direction."

I think we can go further than that. For instance, there are those who are content with the American system of life. They have rights, too. I think that just as any man has the liberty to advocate vast and fundamental changes, so any American has the liberty to prevent such changes from coming into being. Just as anyone may criticize our form of government, and our economic system, and our social institutions, so any American has the liberty to fight the advocacy of such changes and to prevent them from being advocated at his expense, namely, by the use of taxpayers' money with the consent of the majority of the taxpayers. Those who object to school auditoriums being used to advocate the destruction of the system which erected the schools, have as many rights as those who insist that schools must be amoral institutions in which the fundamentals of our civilization may not be taught because they emanate from religion.

THIS COMES DOWN to the question of our schols and colleges. In the public schools, the public high schools and the public colleges, the ownership is vested in the people. Such institutions exist on the moneys of the taxpayers, who have the right to determine the nature and purpose and service of these institutions by a majority vote in a legislative body. The teachers, professors and administrators are employes whose nature of service, responsibilities, obligations and rights are determined by laws passed by legislatures and regulations issued by the designated officials. That is the essential contractual relationship.

Anyone has the option of accepting employment on the basis of the laws and regulations or not accepting employment. If the legislature demands a loyalty oath, those who reject the loyalty oath have the privilege of resigning. It would seem by the logic of the situation that they have no other alternative.

In privately-owned schools and colleges, other factors enter into the picture except in such institutions as accept tax exemptions. If the legislature makes it a condition of tax exemption that those who teach take an oath of loyalty, it would seem that there are these alternatives: either to agree to the loyalty oath or to give up the tax exemption. Institutions which refuse to accept tax exemptions cannot be involved in the conditions which accompany such exemptions.

THE FALLACY of those who advocate revolution is that they refuse to respect the rights of those who oppose revolution, and in a country such as ours, those who oppose revolution have every right to set up legal barriers against revolutions. Acts of Congress and of state legislatures and decisions of the courts are legitimate steps to preserve the traditions and habits of the country.

The revolutionists have always taken the position that they have the right to stand on the barricades, to shoot for their version of liberty, but they reject the right of their opponents to shoot back. They insist upon their right to advocate overthrow, by peaceful means or by violent means, of the existent society but reject the right of the majority of the existent society to adopt peaceful or violent means to defend themselves. This position is utterly untenable.

Mr. Lamont says:

"But we would be wrong, and as democrats we cannot legitimately outlaw either legally or morally those who challenge our position on this issue."

Are we, on the supposition that we are wrong, which we may not be, and that Stalin is right, which he may not be, to permit Stalin to conquer our country either by war, by infiltration, by perversion or by corruption? Are we to give up without a fight because "we could be wrong"?

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

The Huber Fantastic Parade was a feature of the day's program at the laying of the cornerstone of the new Marion County Courthouse on July 4, 1884. The procession formed on North Main street between the railroads, and was composed entirely of Huber workmen. At the head was the traction engine with steam shovel attachment, attached to which was a brick wall, the wall upon which the cornerstone of the windmill was to be laid. After the water tank came the wagon from the boiler shop with workmen hammering away for dear life. Then came two old separators mounted upon which were the fantastic band, "Lalla Rookh" and the gun squad.

Congress Quiz

Q—Can the House remove from The Congressional Record something a senator said?

A—No, but it can ask the Senate to do so. The House in effect made such a request Sept. 27 when it passed a resolution terming "unproper" and a "reflection on the character" of a House member the language used the previous day by Senator Blair Moody. Moody had said Representative George Meader engaged in a "political smear" in charging Democrats solicited funds from postmaster applicants. The resolution asked the Senate to "take appropriate action."

The Once Over

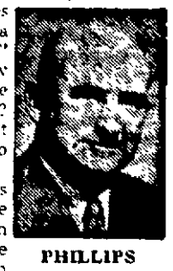
A Hint to Bankers

Bank advertising is too stuffy. It is up to the bankers of the land to produce ads with a wallop and spend more money on them, declares a banker addressing a national convention. "The banks of America stress size, age and the names of prominent trustees," he says. "But it is the advertisement routines of the cigaret, beer and cola people that produce results." He has something there. (How about some emphasis on the "king-size bank account"? Why not the safety-deposit box, "so round, so firm, so fully packed"?)



PHILLIPS

Tobacco, beer, toothpastes and face creams can't be more important to the public than ready money. It shouldn't be much harder to sell thrift than hair oils, washing powders and orange drinks. There will always be an appeal in the dollar. A bank must be less flamboyant than a cigaret company. It wouldn't do to ask "Visit these two banks; take a puff (don't inhale) and blow through your nose. Now which do you prefer?" Nor would there be much sense in telling the public that ten thousand doctors have examined a bank and found no case of "vault" irritation. The brewery technique is out, too, we assume. There would be nothing for a bank in "the hand that never lost its skill" or the banker with "the big, creamy head." No bank could be put across as "the delightfully cool and refreshing bank that goes so good with a ham sandwich."

Nevertheless the bankers might well take a few tips from the big advertisers and put more punch and money into their sales talks.

You can't tell us that there are no health-giving vitamins in those green things John W. Snyder signs. They can look awfully sun-kissed and rich in all the necessary elements. Why can't a rhythmic jingle do as much for a bank balance as it can for a hotdog, a chocolate bar or a stick of gum?

Bank deposits hit the spot.
One or two grand, that's a lot;
Save your dough and bank it, too...
Lots of lucre gives a glow to you!

Many of the devices of big-time advertising are open to the banks. How about a video commercial with dancing deposit books? What about some Waltzing Assets? What's wrong with a little glamour in connection with banks, easily obtainable by the employment of a gorgeous eyeful to sing or chant a few lines for thrift and foresight? How about two charming dolls and the query "Which one has the MONEY?"

The cereal approach might be employed, too. A bank account can do more to give you "that satisfied feeling" than any breakfast food. Certainly a bank is no less vital to our way of life than a brewery. We are with the banker who accuses the banking institutions of being asleep at the switch, dull in their advertising approach and too restrained in salesmanship. Dignity my eye! Let's have a little color, glamour and warmth associated with a bank book! It certainly can make you "look sharp, feel sharp and be sharp," bub.

WHEN MISS ANNE BALDWIN became the bride of John P. Courtright Jr., Sunday afternoon the ceremony was read in Epworth Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Baldwin of 105 West Walnut street and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John P. Courtright of 205 South Greenwood street.

Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor, read the ceremony at 3 o'clock, assisted by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Decorations on the altar were white chrysanthemums held in two tall baskets and lighted tapers in seven-branch candelabra. Miss Wanda McMahan played a program of organ music as the guests were being seated and accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Carroll C. Conklin of Columbus. Lighting the candles was Mrs. Robert Gatchell of Upper Sandusky, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white Chantilly type lace and satin. Over the strapless bodice she wore a fitted lace jacket, fashioned with long sleeves and button trimmed in front from a Peter Pan collar. Foreign Affairs Writer To Speak To Clubwomen

THE first program meeting of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs on Nov. 28 will bring Spencer Irwin, Cleveland newspaperman and associate editor and foreign affairs columnist of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, to Marion. As in former years Mr. Spencer's talk, as well as other programs of the federation this year, will be open to clubwomen and holders of patron and patroness memberships. Memberships are now being enrolled by the more than 30 clubs in the federation.

Plans for Mr. Spencer's talk, which will be in the First Evangelical and Reformed Church, and other activities were made at the monthly meeting of the Federation Board Tuesday at the Women's Club Home.

Mrs. C. J Altmaier, chairman, announced the observance of National Art Week the first week in November and asked all clubs to participate in the event. There will be an exhibit at the Women's Club Home throughout the week and each club is asked to submit at least two or three articles for the display.

Mrs. Walter E Hane, president, discussed the Women's Club Home as an asset to Marion. In discussing the needs of the Federation and also the city, she visioned the Home as a community center. She also suggested the need of an auditorium as a community need and an asset to the Federation Home. In discussing the financing of the home she recalled to the clubwomen that the Home was a gift from S. E. Barlow, as a proof of the faith he had in clubwomen as civic leaders. She asked the clubwomen consider Mr Barlow's generosity and faith in the future of Marion by remembering the Home in financial bequests.

Mrs. Hane also announced the Mississippi Valley Conference of the General Federation to be held at Cleveland Feb. 12 next year. This is the first time Ohio has been honored in this way, she stated. Clubwomen from 12 states, including North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Nebraska and others in this section, will be in attendance as well as General Federation officers and representatives.

A guest on the program was Mrs. Rose Nichols, president of the Jessie A. Gardner Federated Club, who told of the organization of the club by a group of Negro women and what it has accomplished since its organization four years ago The club home, built and furnished by the women, will be opened Oct. 28, and dedicated in ceremonies set for Nov. 4. Open house will be observed in the afternoon and evening on the 28th. A dinner will be sponsored by the club on Sunday, Nov. 18, to aid in raising funds for the home.

Miss Pansy Rauhauser announced the annual meeting of the Ohioana Library Association on Nov. 10 at the Neil House in Columbus at which time medals will be presented to Lowell Thomas and Howard Chandler Christy and recognition given to other outstanding Ohioans.

Each club is asked to contribute one dollar to the penny art fund and also to forward their contributions as early as possible Pan-American scholarship contributions also are asked to be sent in at the earliest convenience and clubs also are asked to double their contributions when possible.

Announcement was made of the observance of U.N. Day Friday, at the Marion Country Club, when Nilkanth Chavre, Indian lecturer, will speak on "India's Place in the United Nations."

Reports on the Central District conference held last week at Utica were given by Mrs Hane, Mrs. Gladys Arter, Mrs. W. L. Williams, Mrs. W. G. Wheeler, Mrs Clate W. Smith, Mrs. Paul Kyle and Mrs. C. J. Altmaier.

Eisenhower Backers Alarmed

Opponents Claim Taft's Bid For Presidency "Too Early"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—Senator Robert A Taft's non-surprise announcement that he wants the 1952 Republican presidential nomination drew a "too early?" reaction today from backers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But there also was a feeling in the Ike-for-president camp that the general should announce his availability soon—provided he announces it at all—lest Taft get too long a head start in the race for national convention delegates.

Taft yesterday became the first declared presidential candidate in either major party, announcing his intentions a full nine months ahead of the G.O.P. nominating convention in Chicago.

The Ohio senator followed through by attacking the Truman administrations health program and spending policies, thus giving a foretaste of the campaign he is likely to wage.

Proposes Economic Survey

Speaking to the American Dental Association convention here last night, the senator proposed creation of a military-civilian commission to determine "just what is the economic capacity" of the nation to cope with defense spending.

He said he believes the projected outlay is "beyond what the program ought to be" and called it "a threat to the stability of the country."

Taft also had harsh words for what he called socialized medicine. The government "has a proper field in the welfare picture," he said, but it should be defined "so that it does not mean government control of welfare and health."

Among his Senate colleagues, there was some speculation that Taft took a risky course by announcing his candidacy so far in advance of the convention.

Old Axiom

There's an old political axiom that the first candidate in the field sets himself up as a target for all the later comers.

It was recalled that Taft likewise announced he would seek the nomination nine months ahead of the G.O.P. convention in 1948—and then lost the race to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. He was also an announced candidate in 1940.

This year, however, Taft was urged by Senator Brewster (R-Me) and others to get his hat into the ring without further delay.

And Senator Young (R-ND), a Taft backer, said he thought the Ohioan was wise in doing so.

"He's the best of the Republicans now prominently mentioned," Young told a reporter.

Must Speak Soon

In the Eisenhower camp, Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass) said he believed the general—who has been rigidly silent about his political plans, if any—must decide "in a reasonable time" whether he would accept the G.O.P. nomination.

"I mean in January or early February, 1952, at the latest," the senator said.

BIG-INCH BREAKS

CALDWELL, O., Oct. 17—(AP)—The big-inch pipe line of the Texas Eastern Gas Transmission Company broke five miles east of Summerfield in Noble County yesterday. There was no fire or explosion, but people living nearby said the break made a roar like a cannon.

LOAN ASSOCIATION ELECTS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17—(AP)—Charles Cook of Lima was re-elected president of the Ohio Association of Small Loan Companies yesterday. Ray Fair of Akron was elected vice president, and Lloyd J. Laut, of New Bremen, secretary-treasurer.

Power windmills practically disappeared with the coming of small gasoline engines.

Plug "Asia For Asians," Dewey Advises

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 17—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says United States information services have played into Russian hands in the struggle for Asia.

America must quit "trying to make the rest of the world over into our own image," he added, because our government is not beyond criticism and others "do not want to copy us."

The New York governor, addressing a Connecticut Bar Association banquet last night, called for a shift in American propaganda towards championing "Asia for the Asians—not for the Russians."

His remarks about his recent 40,000-mile far eastern tour were broadcast nationally by the American Broadcasting Company.

In the Service

Robert W. Bond, electrician second class in the Naval Air Corps, sailed for Japan recently on the U.S. Valley Forge, aircraft carrier, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bond of 252 Bellefontaine avenue. He was graduated in 1945 from North High School in Columbus and attended Ohio State University. He served in the Navy for four years during World War II and was recalled last October.

Robert L. Lee, electrician's mate, 2/c, U. S. Navy, returned Saturday night to Norfolk, Va., after spending a 10-day leave here with his mother, Mrs Gerald James of near Marion. He is serving aboard the U.S.S. Wisconsin. He made the return trip by plane.

Pfc. Richard E. Miers, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Miers of 585 Herman street, has been assigned to the 23rd Air Police Squadron of the 23 Fighter-Interceptor Wing at the Presque Isle Air Force Base, Maine. Miers attended Edison Junior High School and was employed at Short Ford Inc. before his enlistment last July.

James D. Gallaher, airman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gallaher of near Delaware, was recently graduated from the Aviation Structural Mechanics School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn. Gallaher entered the service in December 1950 and received his recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. Before entering the Navy, he attended Ohio State University.

679 MILLION CANS OF RIVAL DOG FOOD SOLD
IT MUST BE GOOD!

WANT TO KNOW WHY we sell so many millions of cans of Rival? Look at any Rival-fed dog—big or little, pup or patriarch.

WATCH HIS EYES dance. Run your fingers through his coat—sleek and silky, thick and firm. Note that he's always ready for a romp or run. And this is often the same dog who failed to thrive—lost his looks and pep—on other foods! Rival Dog Food made the difference.

NOW WATCH HIM EAT. See him "jet propel" himself up to his dish of Rival, with his tail telling the world: "This I like!" Yet this may be the "Fussy Fido" or "Hard-to-please Hector" who turned up a haughty nose at other foods. The secret? It's the nourishing ingredients in the Rival formula—plus the Rival flavor—a natural flavor, never artificially "doctored" or flavored.

RIVAL'S SUCCESS with dog owners and their dogs came about through the Rival idea. You see it in the modern Rival plant, spotless as your own kitchen, and the Rival laboratories, which double-check every ingredient. In the Rival Kennels, dogs fed only on Rival prove, by their splendid condition, that your dog too can have new beauty of coat, solid bone and muscle, and a world of vitality.

Weigh Prestige Against Fear of War

"Churchillism" Is Key Issue for Britons As Crucial Election Nears

Relman Morin, AP special correspondent who has covered many political skirmishes in the United States, is in England to report on the British election campaign. Morin is a former chief of the AP's Washington Bureau, and served during World War II and again in Korea as a war correspondent.

By RELMAN MORIN

LONDON, Oct. 17—(AP)—Majestic old Winston Churchill, still the greatest single force in British politics, is both a liability and an asset to his Conservative party's fight to overthrow the Socialist government in the national election next week.

Churchill himself, as an individual and a leader, is one of the "issues" in this campaign.

There are people who are afraid of him, and will vote against the Conservatives solely because he is the party leader. Vice versa, his name alone, as always, will be a magic lodestone for an army of voters, who might otherwise vote labor or liberal.

Symbol of Prestige

In each case, British prestige in the world, along with the danger of war, is a motivating sentiment.

On the one hand, today, Britons will tell you, "there isn't a country in the world that respects us any more. If Winnie had been in, that couldn't have happened."

The opposite attitude is this:

"Churchill doesn't realize that we are no longer in the 19th Century. He'd have had us in a war by this time."

Iran and Egypt have dramatized, and badly inflamed, these divergent views.

The loss of Iranian oil is bad enough. But the loss of prestige, to thousands of average people, is even worse.

Originally, the Iranian case apparently hurt the Labor campaign and helped the Conservatives. But government spokesmen have been quick to claim that Iran, basically, represented a dreadful decision—peace or war.

Price of Avoiding War

They have asserted Britain could have held the Anglo-Iranian establishments only with troops. They reminded the people that Russia could then have put her troops into Iran, under terms of a treaty. And they conclude that that would have meant the start of the Third World War.

"Perhaps," they say, "Mr. Churchill would have been prepared to go to war over this. But would any mother with a son of army age agree?"

The Conservatives say events in Iran could have been so handled that they never would have reached a point of crisis. They say the present government was guilty either of ignorance or negligence — both "criminal." And along with Iran, they now have Egypt as a talking-point to add to the bell-tollings for the loss of former imperial holdings in the Far East.

"Today," they say, "anybody can kick us around."

On a broader base, as well, both parties have presented to the voter what is, essentially, the issue of "Churchillism."

The Labor party program warns that "the Tory reaction to crisis is force." They are acutely aware that the British people, like the people of most western nations, would go to almost any length to avoid another war.

Linked With War

Thus the effort is made to make "Churchill" synonymous with "War." Judging from the murmurs of agreement and conviction that usually follow this line of argument, the point has been struck home.

Churchill, hitting back, reminds the people that after World War II, "we were respected, honored and admired throughout the world." Retreat, humiliation and diminishing prestige are all the more bitter today, when they are contrasted with Britain's high position in the summer of 1945—when Labor came into government.

People are badly divided on the question.

Some are afraid of Churchill, in the same vague unspecified way that some Americans are "afraid of a military man in the White House." Others believe Churchill could have avoided all the disasters of the past six years; how, they don't precisely know.

They respect and cherish the old warrior, but they also worry because he is a warrior.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

EVEN the undercover Communist operation must have unromantic and prosaic communications systems to spread The Message to its frenetic believers. It can't always deal in cryptic words on torn cereal box covers. For, even today, the fanatics are too numerous.

The old Communist publications are now so hot that the faithful buy them under the counter only at trusted news stands; the "movement" is developing new, and as yet unrecognizable slick cover magazines to dispense the gospel to the far - flung comrades.

Victor Riesel

This is the story of that communications system

It features a rover named Itzak Ryshak.

It takes us from his friends in Mao Tse-tung's famous Eighth Route Army to Shanghai and on to San Francisco and a closed session in the modest home of Harry Bridges' attorney in the hilly city.

It involves men who've run some of the nation's deadliest strikes in the past few years. It shows how successfully the Communists today can raise scores of thousand of dollars.

It reveals that the number one task assigned to the comrades' communications system now is the destruction of Walter Reuther.

FANTASTIC? Certainly! But such is the nature of the centralized and disciplined pro-Communist organization inside labor It flourishes right now—although not for a moment since June 25, 1950, became a date for the history books, has it ceased giving moral comfort to a Communist army which has inflicted 88,000 casualties on the kids from the crossroads of this country.

As I revealed last week, the pro-Communist unions, led by Harry Bridges, tried to meet secretly in New York's Hotel New Yorker to launch a third labor federation. They met, although this column kept it from being an "underground" gathering. They organized. And one of the propaganda weapons they knew they could count on was a slick paper magazine, edited by Itzak Ryshak, alias John Steuben of 20-65 27 St., Astoria, Long Island, to be exact.

THIS WOULD BE their national link This would set the pro-Commie labor line. Rysnak-Steuben had seen to that. Who is Ryshak-Steuben? He is a man who has been in contact with Communist leaders for years—right across the world. He was sufficiently trusted to have visited the Communist Chinese Eighth Route Army—the one which, with Soviet guns, destroyed Nationalist China.

He was in Shanghai with the comrades. He led Communist veterans and youth in this country. He has received instructions from the top—and has been one of the authorities on new strike techniques.

He served his term in the pro-Communist hierarchy of a left wing union. And finally, he was selected to edit something called "The March of Labor" at 799 Broadway, New York

On taking over, Ryshak-Steuben was told that he had the key medium for distributing information to the Communists and their comrades inside labor, particularly since many old Communist publications have been discontinued, such as "Political Affairs, a Theoretical Organ."

THEN HE BEGAN traveling again. This time inside U. S. A. A few days after we began covering the A.F.L. convention in San Francisco last month, word was passed around that he was down in Los Angeles. Some 60 select vermillion comrades were summoned. Down he laid the Red labor line—smash Walter Reuther!

Not too well guarded was that meeting, for we did learn that Ryshak-Steuben boasted that, "It will not be long before Reuther is smashed" Undoubtedly, the comrades' fingers itch to get a stranglehold on Detroit. Reuther is, in their way.

A few days later — Thursday, Sept. 20, to be exact again—Bridges set up a private dinner for Steuben in the home of his left-wing Longshoremen's Union Attorney, Vincent Hallinan—who apparently is going in for a literary fling. He's turning Boswell on Bridges—writing a book on Harry, the man with the hook, the longshoremen's symbol.

That night, the diners were well loaded. Steuben raised about $15,000 for his magazine. "The March of Labor" Now just where did Bridges and his friends get the 15 grand? That's a lot of money for proletarians to carry around.

Since then there have been other meetings. Other collections have netted other bundles of $10,000. So they're in business And when next you see the slick "March of Labor" on your news stand, in your union shop, in your factory or office — you'll know what kind of business.

Who's Who In '52

By Inez Robb

WASHINGTON

FRIENDS, Romans, citizens, do me a favor. Don't lend me your ears.

Mine are bent and baffled. No use getting yours out of plumb, too.

I have learned on highest authority, right out of the horse's mouth (naturally, honey, this is a talking horse) that Harry S. Truman is running like a fox, that Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft is running like a fox and that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is running like a fox.

Inez Robb

And I have learned on the highest authority, right out of this feed-box (naturally, honey, this is a talking feed-box) that Harry wouldn't touch it with a ten foot pole, and Bob, in spite of what he says, doesn't want it on a silver platter and that Ike don't like.

Well, honestly, it is so thrilling to be in Washington.

Why, it is simply amazing what a girl (this term is used in its poetic or nondescript sense) can learn by the simple process of keeping her rosebud mouth shut and her ears open. And it is a very simple process, indeed, because most people in Washington talk so much that a visiting fireman can't get a word in edgewise with a burp-gun.

EVERYONE HERE LIVES in a smoke-filled room. And while the aroma may be a teensy bit hard to get accustomed to, it does give the visitor a feeling of being right in the center of things and au courant with everything, always providing stale smoke doesn't give him mal de mer in the first place Practically everyone in the capital is an authentic, peachable source of inside information.

Taxi-drivers are an especially valuable source, on account of so many senators and diplomats and tax collectors ride the cabs. Now, I wouldn't want you to repeat this, because my taxi driver told me in confidence. But he knows for a fact that Bill Boyle (in Washington, everyone calls everyone else by his first name or worse) did resign as chairman of the Democratic committee on account of health.

"But in the papers, it just says Bill resigns on account of health. But it don't say whose health," said my shrewd driver "That's because he resigns on account of Harry's health. The President ain't been feeling so good since them investigators been delving into the RFC.

"I'M TELLING YA this in strictest confidence," my driver continued, lowering his voice imperceptibly, "but like as not, if these here investigations turns up anything else missing, the Prezz is going to feel too bad to run."

Whether they're for him or agin him for the presidency, everyone sympathizes with Sen. Taft's very real dilemma, the continuing and serious illness of his wife, Martha.

It is because of her condition that many informed (see, I've caught on, too') sources believe the senator, for the first time in his ambitious, White House directed life, may really be hesitating to run in '52.

And some of the Republicans who have been beating the drums for Gen. Eisenhower are now wondering if this man with the built-in radio and TV personality can swing not from the floor but from the gutter. Because gents on both camps are pretty sure that's the kind of campaign it's going to be.

An ability to swing from the floor won't be enough, the old political scofflaws opine. Gutter in-fighting—that's the ticket in '52, they predict. And they're wondering if the general from the playing fields of West Point is capable of that kind of a campaign.

Anyway, friends, Romans, citizens, everyone in the nation's capital is beating his gums overtime. This brief visit is a kind of preview of '52. Against that awful day and hour, I am going home and work myself a gros point sandwich board with the motto "Hit me again, I can still hear 'em."

A Boy Can Dream, Can't He?...

SURE. You can probably remember when you sat behind a steering wheel with your own feet dangling somewhat short of the foot pedals ... doing some pretty excited dreaming, yourself.

Nice thing about it, as you found out, little boys' dreams have a way of coming true, here in America.

And one reason for that is the fact that the competitive companies in every industry are free to outdo one another to make them come true.

Take the petroleum industry, for instance.

This year, the Ohio Oil Company, alone, is plowing back millions and millions of dollars (as it does every year) to bring in new wells, to expand its vast pipeline network, to improve its refining, transportation and marketing facilities.

That is partly for you.

It is also partly for that youngster whose scuffed toes don't quite reach the foot pedals – yet.

As long as the companies in the oil industry are free to compete to fill your needs ... and his dreams ... we can all look to the future with a lot of confidence, can't we?

Pakistan Fears Violence After Assassination

Leader Buried Hurriedly To Avoid Stirring Hatreds

KARACHI, Pakistan, Oct. 17—(AP)—Pakistan buried her murdered prime minister, Liaquat Ali Khan, today, while a stunned nation grieved.

Sobbing, sorrowing thousands lined a route heavily guarded by troops as Liaquat's body was brought from his home to a hallowed cemetery to be placed beside that of the man he succeeded as this nation's chief, the revered Mohammed Ali Jinnah.

The leader of this four-year-old nation was shot to death yesterday at Rawalpindi in the Punjab, where he had just begun a speaking tour. The body was flown to Karachi early today and hurried funeral arrangements were made while the nation trembled at the prospect of violence in the wake of the assassin's act.

The crowd was orderly, obviously stunned. As the body was borne through the streets on a flower-decked artillery caisson, Pakistani officials announced for the first time that they identified Liaquat's slayer as an Afghanistan national.

Assassin Torn to Pieces

The leader of the Moslem country was shot to death at Rawalpindi, 30 miles from disputed Kashmir, yesterday by an assassin who fired bullets into Liaquat's chest and head as he began a speech to the Moslem League.

The fanatic killer, Sher Akhtar, who wanted a holy war against India, was snatched by the audience and torn to pieces.

The heavy-set, 56-year-old national leader was defense minister as well as prime minister. Both his jobs were taken over today by the governor general, Sir Khwaja Nazimuddin, the radio said. There was no immediate announcement of a new governor general.

A quick funeral was arranged for Liaquat. Officials apparently feared a prolonged period of mourning might stir hatreds and result in widespread violence.

(Normal telephone and telegraph service between India and Pakistan was suspended, dispatches from the Indian capital of New Delhi reported. Pakistani officials apparently had also ordered a form of censorship to prevent disturbances.)

Throughout the nation flags

fluttered at half staff, offices were shut and business halted.

Punjab Governor Sirdar Abdur Rab Nishtar, Finance Minister Ghulam Mohammed, and Nazimuddin flew to Karachi in the special plane that returned Liaquat's body.

Nazimuddin, the new prime minister, is a short, chubby, landed aristocrat from Dacca, the capital of East Pakistan. He was one of Jinnah's most faithful followers and was prime minister of troubled Bengal before its partition.

He became prime minister of East Pakistan when the Moslem nation was created in 1947 and was appointed governor general when Jinnah died the following year. He is 57.

Says Assassination Leaves U.N. With Crisis

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Oct. 16—(AP)—Eugene Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis Star, said tonight the assassination of Pakistan's Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan leaves the United Nations facing a crisis that may determine whether the U. N. survives.

Pulliam talked with the slain premier only 17 days ago. He has just returned from a round-the-world tour, which included an audience with Liaquat Ali Khan Sept. 29.

admitted it was the belt he had used.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos were arrested by police and deputy sheriffs Monday night after marks of the beatings had been discovered on the children. The youngest of the two boys had been caught taking cigarets to school and a search of his clothing disclosed the marks.

Officers were called and his brother and sister also were found to have been beaten. Mr. and Mrs. Amos said one of the boys had been punished when he failed to carry in firewood and the other two for crying when the first was whipped.

An investigation of the home on Cottage street disclosed the family had been living in squalor for several months. The home had been uncleaned and was without any type of sanitary facility.

Mr. Amos, a former city employe, had made his living during recent months by collecting and selling scrap cardboard.

Bliss Calls For Support Of Sen. Taft

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17—(AP)—Ray Bliss of Akron, chairman of the Ohio Republican party, has called upon Americans to rally behind U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft in the senator's bid for the presidency.

Said Bliss in a statement issued some hours after Taft made his announcement on candidacy yesterday:

"Senator Taft is the best equipped to present a clear-cut, courageous and fighting campaign squarely on the issues. By ability, background and experience, Senator Taft is best qualified to be president.

Bliss' statement added:

"Ohioans will conduct an active and intensive campaign to assist Senator Taft in winning the Republican presidential nomination and to assure the Republican party a candidate who will provide a hard-hitting, personalized campaign."

Wallace Denies Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace today denounced as "slander" and "nonsense" statements by ex-Communist Louis Budenz that Wallace made Communist-line recommendations after a 1944 mission to China.

"Far from following a line favorable to the Communists," Wallace declared, "my mission resulted in recommendations to the President which, if promptly followed, would have been most harmful to the Communist cause in China."

Wallace testified before the Senate internal security subcommittee. The room was packed, and would-be spectators, unable to squeeze their way in, crowded around the door outside.

It was before the same Senate group that Budenz gave testimony that Wallace's recommendations followed the Communist line. Budenz is a former editor of the Communist newspaper, "Daily Worker." He renounced Communism several years ago and now is a professor of economics at Fordham University.

Wallace came before the senators with a prepared statement in which he lashed out at Budenz' testimony as "absurd" and "an affront to the dignity" of the Senate.

Offers Information On Missing Girl

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17—(AP)—Police arrested a 39-year-old man in a downtown bus station today after he telephoned Mayor Thomas Burke and said he knew something about missing 10-year-old Beverly Potts.

Columbus police rather doubted the mans' professed knowledge of the missing girl. They said he offered similar knowledge in a Shreveport, La., case Monday.

But Cleveland police said they would talk to the man in Columbus today and then take him to Cleveland.

Police identified the man as Lonnie Love, formerly of Cleveland.

WITH U. S. FORCES, KOREA, Oct. 17—(AP)—Doctors cut a live three-inch armor-piercing shell from the shoulder of Pvt. Arthur C. Barree of San Francisco. Medical officers said Barree is "in good shape" and should suffer no permanent injury.

11-Year-Old Boy Says He Stole To Buy Clothes

An 11-year-old boy learned yesterday that the common human desire to be well-dressed can cause trouble.

He has admitted to police that he took a purse containing $85 from Ed's Market on North Greenwood street so that he might buy himself some new clothes.

The purse was the property of Mrs. Clarence Kline of 502 North Greenwood street. She is a clerk in the store and noticed her purse missing at about 8 p.m. Monday.

She told police she remembered seeing three boys in the store and police checked on each one. When they talked to the 11-year-old he admitted the theft and that he had bought clothes with the money. Most of the money has been recovered, police said.

He is in the detention ward at the Marion County Children's Home. A hearing has been set in Juvenile Court Friday. He will be charged with the theft.

Rejection

seven conferees, headed by Doughton, were reappointed.

C.I.O. Urged Rejection

A letter from the C.I.O. to all House members urging rejection of the compromise bill was said by some committee members to have had considerable influence in swinging doubtful votes. The C.I.O. said the measure put entirely too heavy a burden on low income groups and let the wealthy off too lightly. The labor group recommended a full $10,000,000,000 increase, as asked by President Truman, with higher corporation taxes.

Unless a new conference can get together with unprecedented speed on a bill acceptable to both Houses, there is no chance that proposed increases in the individual income tax and excise (sales) taxes can be put into effect Nov. 1 as planned.

Both Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Finance Committee and Senator Millikin (R-Colo), senior Republican on that group, said they would not vote for any greater increase than the $5,732,000,000 which the House turned down yesterday.

And Senate Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz), his eye on adjournment Saturday, said: "If the conferees go back and can't agree, we are not going to sit around indefinitely waiting on them."

Prison Revolt

administration building all night. Most of them stretched out on the cold, damp pavement. A few huddled in blankets.

As the sun came up, they stirred again, shouting threats and abuse.

All night, prison floodlights glared down on the compound. Guards manned every gun turret.

When the prisoners first began the revolt yesterday, Warden Skeen told them they would be given the choice of returning to their cells or spending the night in the yard.

"They chose to stay in the yard and that's where they'll stay," he declared.

The prison's guard force of 90 men was withdrawn from the prison and placed around the walls. State police backed them up outside the walls.

Won't Enter Mess Hall

The revolt started as the men were to file into the big mess hall. They wouldn't go. They said they were enforcing their demands that the prison officials clean up a cook they said was dirty and that they be given more clothing.

The mutineers for the first few hours were noisy but started no real violence. As the night chill and hunger pains overtook them—their last meal was at noontime—they tried their attacks.

Both assaults on the power plant and commissary were broken up by heavy firing by the guards. Some tear gas also was used. Some of the men were armed with crude knives and broken scissors, but they did not have an opportunity to use them.

After the firing stopped, prison officials inquired over the public address system if anyone was hurt. If they were, bring the injured ones forward, and they would be cared for.

A brief silence followed, then a single voice: "nobody hurt."

After that it settled down to an endurance test, with neither side asking for a compromise.

A three-man committee had called on Warden Orel J. Skeen earlier in the day to complain about the cook and to ask for more clothes.

The warden said he told them the cook "would be taken care of." As to the shortage of clothing, he said, "I admitted that was possibly true, because we do not have enough funds available for clothes."

Tension Mounting

Skeen acknowledged, and other officials agreed, that "tension has been mounting for some time."

A revolt started only 24 hours before last night's uprising but did not succeed because other prisoners didn't back up the leaders, who tried to start it by refusing to eat.

Two months ago a petition signed by nine prisoners was smuggled out of the penitentiary. It complained of "vile, corrupt and unsanitary" conditions in the prison.

The Intelligencer, a newspaper in Wheeling 12 miles up the Ohio River, sent down a reporter who was permitted to talk with the signers and other prisoners.

The Intelligencer then ran a series of articles on conditions in the pen, summing up that improvement was needed in the food, treatment of the prisoners and in sanitation.

It also related that prisoners were punished by handcuffing them to a bar above their heads for long periods.

Warden Skeen today acknowledged that the prison did handcuff bad actors to the bars of their cells chest high. He did not say how long they were kept that way, but explained it was punishment for those "who figure they can sleep all day and stay up yelling all night."

Idea of Punishment

He said the idea of that form of punishment was that those prisoners would be tired enough to sleep at night "and let the men sleep who want to sleep."

Just a few hours before the revolt occurred, Federal Judge William A. Baker named a panel of four Wheeling attorneys to make a preliminary investigation of the petition.

Their specific assignment is to determine if the petitioners are paupers and not subject to federal costs of an investigation. This was interpreted as being the preliminary step to an investigation of the petition.

After he was queried about the petition, Warden Skeen added that "if anyone can show me a better way to solve the problem, we'll be glad to listen to them."

The old gray prison, surrounded by 40-foot walls, was erected in 1866 for a capacity of 900. For many years the prison population has averaged about 1,800. There are now 1,760 convicts on the rolls.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slowdown of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Longshoremen Resume Work At Army Base

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—(AP)—Striking longshoremen returned to work today at Brooklyn's huge Army base, after underworld figure Anthony Anastasia led an imported crew of workers through the gates.

The back-to-work move at the Army base, one of the nation's major shipping centers for Korea and other military outposts, came as the government considered bringing in troops to handle cargoes.

Anastasia, accused before the Senate crime committee of leading hired "goons and thugs" to break another strike, showed up at the base this morning with several truckloads of men.

As the men followed him through the gates, some 250 striking stevedores outside began milling about restlessly. One of them climbed atop a car, and yelled at the throng:

"Let's go in and get those other guys out."

There also were shouts about "a gang of criminals taking our jobs." Speakers denounced Joseph Ryan, head of the A.F.L. International Longshoremen's Association, who had blamed the walkout on Communists.

Then, in a body, the stevedores streamed onto the piers. As they shaped up for work, Anastasia and his followers beat a hasty retreat.

Although cargoes were moving again at the Army base, the wildcat strike still continued at other piers scattered along the miles of Brooklyn Harbor front and along the Hudson River in Manhattan.

About 2,000 stevedores, rebelling against a newly ratified contract by the A.F.L. union, tied up operations at about 20 piers, and halted work on at least 19 ships.

Hope Held For Missing Plane

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., Oct. 17—(AP)—Air Force and Coast Guard searchers early today reported sighting intermittent flashes of dim lights on the high seas, giving rise to hopes that crew members of the missing stratofreighter are still alive.

The Air Force said two of its planes spotted the lights about 150 miles south of Sable Island, Nova Scotia, at about the same location where the latest of three weak SOS signals were picked up last night.

The Stratofreighter with 11 crewmen aboard disappeared shortly after it left the Azores Monday morning enroute to Westover Air Force base.

damage to surrounding business places.

A New York Central train was held up for about half an hour while a fire hydrant on the north side of the tracks on Main street was used for water supply.

Street Blocked Off

City police were on hand to block off the street and control the crowd which gathered to watch the blaze.

Mr. Wilson removed records from his office in the northwest corner of the building as soon as he was notified of the fire, but the blaze was put out before any damage to the office resulted.

The contents of the building were partially covered with insurance. Mr. Wilson estimates that the auction house will be closed for at least a month.

City Police Find Use for Old Car Then Can't Find It

A police car has disappeared. But don't worry, it was found again.

It was one used by the plain clothes division of the police department and is usually left parked near the police station.

During the Wilson Auction House fire last night the car was pressed into service to rush extra patrolmen to East Mill street to help handle the traffic and the crowd.

It was parked on Mill street, and after the fire the patrolmen went back to the station, forgetting about the unmarked car. No record was made at the police station of the car being used.

This morning, the car had apparently disappeared. Patrol cars were sent to scour the city for it. After a futile two-hour search an off-duty patrolman stopped at the station and remembered seeing the car parked on East Mill street.

Soviets Use Veto Threat To Back Iran

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—(AP)—Threats of a Russian veto and an Iranian walk-out hung over the United Nations Security Council today as U. N. efforts to solve the British-Iranian oil dispute neared an end.

The council scheduled both morning and afternoon sessions in an attempt to clear the decks before taking up the Kashmir problem tomorrow. Council members felt a special urgency over Kashmir because of the assassination yesterday of Pakistan's Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Kahn.

Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh announced he would lead off today's meeting with another appeal for the council to throw out the oil dispute as none of its business. If, as is expected, the council rejects this view, Mossadegh may make good his earlier threat to walk out.

Russian Delegate Semyon K. Tsaraplkin backed the Iranian position in strong language yesterday. He denounced a British resolution now before the council as intervention in Iran's affairs and said the Soviet government objected strenuously to any U. N. action in the matter at all.

Slot Law Test Settles On Two Issues

Can State Regulate Machines? Do They Have Property Value?

URBANA, Oct. 17 — (AP) — Ohio's test of its new slot machine law settled down to two issues today. These are:

1. Has Ohio's General Assembly police powers to regulate slot machines?

2. Do the slot machines have value as property since the law went into effect Sept. 18?

These issues were drawn yesterday during a hearing in the Champaign County Common Pleas Court that's designed to test the law. They will be argued at 10 a. m. next Monday before Judge Arthur Tudor of Hardin County. Judge Tudor is sitting in the case on assignment.

Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill has filed a motion in the court to dismiss a request for an injunction blocking enforcement of the law. The law makes it a felony to possess, own or transport slot machines in Ohio.

Injunction Granted

The court granted a temporary injunction some time ago to Albert Dodson of Urbana, operator of the United Amusement Co., who says he owns $10,000 worth of the machines.

O'Neill, appearing in person to argue for his motion, declined to admit that the slot machines in the case might have value in any other part of the United States. If O'Neill had conceded this, giving Dodson's slot property value, the court said it would have asked the attorneys to file briefs and then give a decision.

However, since Dodson's property rights were involved, the court set Monday as a date for a formal hearing on the two issues which were agreed upon by the court, the attorney general and attorneys representing Dodson.

Expect High Court Rule

Judge Tudor said he expected the issues in the case to reach the Ohio Supreme Court for a decision.

He added that after the Monday hearing, he expects to follow with a decision on the attorney general's motion, and on the constitutionality of the new slots law.

Records indicate that windmills existed prior to the 12th century.

Hunt for Clues In Kidnaping

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 17 —(AP)—Police turned today to factory and business absentee records in their search for a clue to the disappearance of a four-day-old baby.

They planned to question all absentees on their whereabouts at dusk Saturday, when Lawrence James Lyons vanished from his crib at St. Anthony Hospital.

A three-day search of the city by 2,000 volunteers ended late yesterday. They had poked into trash cans and sewers and combed the nearby dunelands without result.

The distraught mother, Mrs. Francis Lyons, 37, offered the theory that the baby might have been taken by agents for a Chicago "baby black market" ring. She gave police a letter she had received, containing clippings of magazine stories about such rackets.

The total of rewards offered for the baby's return neared $3,000. Police checked several reports of mysterious women seen carrying small babies, but they got no clues.

Memorial Program On Radio To Honor Miss Lawrence

As a memorial to Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, many years a Marion musician, the Central District, Ohio Federation of Music Clubs radio program tonight at 8:30 over Station WMRN will be dedicated to reading a group of her original poems. A musical setting will be provided by Mrs. Lewis Wills, pianist. The program has been arranged in keeping with Ohio Poetry Day observance this week. To preface the group, Mrs. Curl will read the National Federation of Music Clubs collect. As the musical background, Mrs. Wills will play, during the reading, "Prelude in A Major," Chopin, "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell, "Well Tempered Clavichord," Bach, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," Saint Saens, and "Hail Ohio," music written by Mrs. Harold K. Mouser of Marion.

Veterans and Draftees Guide

—By—

Major Thomas M. Nial

A MAN OF DRAFT age who has had children since he last informed his draft board about his marital status should notify his local board immediately.

He must provide birth certificates or other proof of the age and number of children. If he has no children yet, but his wife is pregnant, that too should be communicated to the local board at once.

The board also must be notified if the wife has a miscarriage or if the child dies and the father thus is left without a dependent other than his wife.

President Truman signed on Sept. 26 the new draft regulations which make childless married men eligible for military service.

Under the terms of these regulations, local boards are reclassifying their registrants. Selective service estimates that 500,000 childless husbands who have been in class 3-A—the deferred class for married men—will be classified 1-A, immediately eligible for service.

THE AGENCY HOPES to obtain possibly 200,000 new soldiers, airmen, sailors and marines through this classification.

The man whose wife becomes pregnant must present a certificate from his family physician or other definite proof. The draft boards won't accept guesses.

This proof may be presented after the man has been reclassified 1-A, but it must be presented before the date that he is ordered to report for induction. The date is determined by the postmark on the notice, not by the time the notice was opened or read by its recipient.

Many men who have been in class 3-A for some time have dependents—some have as many as two or three children born in that period—about whom they have not informed their local boards.

It is strictly up to the registrant to tell the board, not to the board to inquire of the registrant. It is perfectly possible for a married man with children to get drafted through his own negligence about keeping his draft board informed.

* * *

ON THE OTHER side of the picture, the man who was deferred because his wife was pregnant, and who fails to inform his board if she has a miscarriage or the baby dies, is subject to the same severe penalties—fines and imprisonment — as draft-dodgers.

Because of the various time lapses involved, it is unlikely that boards will get around to drafting childless fathers until after the first of the year.

The new regulations also for the first time make aliens living permanently in the United States liable for the draft. Under the old law they could not be drafted unless they had taken out first citizenship papers.

Aliens now are exempt only if they are diplomatic personnel, United Nations workers, students or other specificially exempt persons, or are citizens of certain "treaty nations."

Band Benefit Football Game Set Saturday

Harding High Reserves To Meet Findlay Team

Final arrangements have been made by the Harding High School Band and Orchestra Parents Association for sponsoring a benefit football game Saturday night.

The game will be played at Harding stadium at 8 p. m. between the Harding reserves and the reserve team of Findlay High School.

Annually, the Parents Association sponsors a game played by reserve teams in order to raise funds to help provide equipment for the band.

Buy Uniforms, Instruments

From such projects as this, the Parents Association in recent years raised money to provide new uniforms for the band. In addition to this, some of the more expensive and unusual instruments, such as the sousaphone, the oboe, bassoon and others, are purchased by means of fund raising projects and then are property of the school band organization.

Tickets for the game, priced at 60 cents for adults and 30 cents for students, are available from members of the Parents Association, and they also will be placed on sale this week in the junior and senior high schools.

"Western Show" Theme

A special performance, stressing a "Western Show" theme, has been arranged by the band for the halftime period. An opening fanfare will be followed by the playing of "Don't Fence Me In" by the band, featuring a dance step by the members. Then, during the playing of "Wagon Wheels," the band will form a prairie schooner with the wheels revolving, after which the members will make the outline of a Texas steer and play "I'm an Old Cowhand," and then form a cottage and play "Home On the Range."

A salute to the visitors from the Findlay school and a salute to the home fans with the playing of the school fight song and alma mater will conclude the band's performance.

Kenton Youth Held For Auto Theft

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY — A 15-year-old Kenton youth is being held in the Wyandot County jail on a charge of auto theft.

The auto, a 1950 Ford, was stolen by the youth from in front of the Havlin Hotel on North Sandusky avenue in Upper Sandusky. James Truesdell, owner and proprietor of the Havlin Hotel, said he had parked his car about 11 p.m. Sunday. He had removed the keys from the ignition and hid them in the car, but apparently the youth had been watching at the time, or had rummaged through the car in hopes of finding the keys or other artciles.

Crestline police apprehended the thief at 4:40 a.m. Monday on the streets of Crestline.

SOUND EFFECTS. Children afflicted with deafness find it fun to learn the "sound" of words by new methods being used at the John Tracy Clinic in Los Angeles. By repeating them over and over again, the youngsters get acquainted with the words. Above, Connie Pain, 4, asks a new pupil, Tim McIntyre, 2, to speak into a microphone.

Morrow County Files Money Suit

MT. GILEAD — The Morrow County commissioners filed a money action in the amount of $15,721.86 in the Morrow County Common Pleas Court this week against Earl Hottenroth and Anthony DiSanze, doing business as the Edison Cement Works.

The commissioners say that the above amount was the cost of the reconstruction of the Edison bridge which collapsed on Sept. 20, 1950 under the weight of a ready mix truck of the Edison Cement Works.

The commissioners say that the bridge was damaged by the negligence of an employe of the defendants in driving a truck over the bridge at too high a rate of speed and in striking the bridge with the body of the truck and causing it to buckle and collapse.

A new bridge was recently completed at the scene which is about 200 yards south of Edison over the Whetstone Creek on the Cardington Edison road.

The Auto Owners Mutual Insurance Co. of Columbus sued the commissioners two weeks ago for $1,462.65 damages to the truck and Jay Staley, driver of the truck, sued the commissioners for $15,000 the week previous for injuries received in the accident.

Businessmen See Hope Of Checking Inflation

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—(AP)—Many businessmen now think we can get through the defense program without further serious inflation.

In this they take the opposite view to most government officials and many bankers, insurance executives and some industrialists who warn that inflation—born of government spending — will hit hard next year.

Public psychology will have a lot to do with it, doubtless. If the public continues to save about seven percent of its income after taxes, rather than rushing to buy goods because it fears the dollar will lose in value as time goes on —then it will counteract to large extent the inflationary pressure of the billions which the government will spend on its defense program.

Some think the time-table of further inflation will be shown pretty clearly in what businessmen do about inventories between now and the end of the year. Inventories reflect public psychology—or the guessing of business as to what the public is going to want to buy.

Retail inventories hit their peak in April at almost $10 billion. They continued to fall through the summer to around $7.8 billion. Because manufacturers continued to produce at the old rate, even after the stores cut back on their orders, manufacturing inventories climbed steadily to $41.1 billion in August.

But the net result of retail inventories falling and manufacturing inventories rising has been that during the July, August and September quarter total inventories have been almost unchanged.

INVENTORY ACCUMULATION during the first half of the year was one of the chief bulwarks of inflation. Some economists figure that the levelling off of inventories during the summer offset the pressure of rising government spending, so that inflation and deflation played a ding-dong engagement. Some businesses were definitely on the downgrade, while others—tied to the defense production—were booming.

Government spending will continue to expand in the next few months, implying pressure for inflation, higher prices, cheapening dollar. But against this will be the enforced cutbacks in some industries; allocations of scarce materials doing some of the enforcement, and apathy of public buying demand holding others down.

An example of this might be the auto industry. Federal controls will cut production back below last year and the industry contends that there may be a shortage of cars. But some other observers wonder if the industry won't be making just about as many cars as the public would be buying normally.

The auto industry may have been saved by the bell from running into the over-production and stacked-inventory difficulties which beset the television industry earlier.

IF, THEREFORE, the slowdown in some consumer industries offsets the inflationary pull of government spending in defense industries, the important clue to inflation could be found in what businessmen, particularly manufacturers, do in the next few months about inventories. Voluntary liquidation of inventories could make the inflationary pressure quite weak.

"Liquidation of inventory could be the basic fact of the fourth quarter," says the National Industrial Conference Board," as the end of inventory growth was of the third quarter. Any significant liquidation would in fact raise a new set of possibilities for the time schedule of inflation."

The board notes that in the first nine months following Korea, output and prices rose. But in the second quarter of 1951, "a return to something like normal in consumer buying more than offset the growth of defense spending, retarded the rise of income and sent inventories soaring." This flattended out in the three months just past, offsetting rising government spending.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

I switched the controls on my brain cells in a split second after Mildred Grey's astounding reaction to the message from my father that she, Bess Conway and I should purchase expensive evening gowns, wraps and accessories for our appearance at the flamboyant dinner party he wished Dicky and me to stage in New Haven with the purpose of laying a trap for the "college heel," Bill's classmate, the son of the arch traitor whose vile plot my father was attempting to foil.

Here, I saw clearly was no ordinary temperamental objection to appearing in clothes she could not afford. The reason lay deeper than that, and if it did not contain real tragedy, then I never had heard it in a voice. I leaned over and put my hand on her shoulder with real and sincere tenderness in the touch.

"Dear girl," I said, "you do not know the resourcefulness, and the real power possessed by my father. I am sure that if he knew the facts, he could solve your problem. Can you not find courage to tell me about it?"

She waited for fully a second—which seemed an hour—before she answered me. And when she did speak, her voice, though firm, and without a single tremulous note in it, was so filled with despair that I had to fight the impulse to catch her in my arms and soothe her as I would a frightened child But I knew that would be the most unwise action possible, and I only pressed her hand tightly as she began her story.

I am sure Bill has told you my circumstances," she said "I asked him to do so."

She paused, evidently awaiting my reply, so I made it promptly.

"He told me that you were the bravest girl he ever knew," I said, and the light that "never was on sea or land" came into her face. But she did not speak, and I hurried on.

"He told me," I said, "that your parents once had possessed great wealth, but that they had lost it, and were making real sacrifices against your wishes to keep you in college. But he said that you worked at anything you could get to eke out, and that you kept yourself on a most frugal schedule."

"Those things are true," she said, "but don't you see that those jobs I have are given only to the needy students? I had to tell them that I sorely needed the work. I also have had to keep my contributions to the charities and the activities of the students at a shamefully low level."

I could see the painful truth emerging from her story. And then her voice was suddenly impassioned, despairing.

"Can't you see," she implored, "what they are going to think of me if I suddenly blossom out in an outfit which two-thirds of the girls in the college could not afford? They will think that I got the jobs under false pretences, and that I am niggardly in charities and school activities, also a liar and a hypocrite."

She looked out into space for another second, then turned a ravaged face to me

"I shall go through with it, of course," she said. "It is my duty. But, I shall leave college immediately. I shall not wait for the party. If you will let me attend from here, I should be grateful."

The second fire within a week at the Marion Power Shovel Co occurred at 4:53 p. m. yesterday when sparks from a welding torch set fire to sheeting in the roof of the power plant. Damage was estimated at $20.

Firemen from the Central and West Center street stations answered the call.

Firemen were also summoned to the Power Shovel Co. last Saturday morning after workmen ignited a rag with an acetylene torch. No loss resulted.

Argue Question Of Rotating NamesonBallot

Could Result In Junking Tickets Already Printed

COLUMBUS, Oct 17—(AP)—The question of whether tons of ballots already printed for the off-year election Nov. 6 should be junked as waste paper was argued today before the Ohio Supreme Court.

All counties in which voters mark ballots by hand are involved.

The question is the proper method of rotating names of the candidates on the ballots

If the Supreme Court rules before Nov. 6 that Ohio election laws do not carry out the intent of the Ohio constitution on the rotation of names, then the ballots may have to be printed in all counties except those where voting machines are used.

The state constitution provides:

"The names of all candidates for an office at any general election shall be arranged in a group under the title of that office, and shall be so alternated that each name shall appear (insofar as may be reasonably possible) substantially an equal number of times at the beginning, at the end, and in each intermediate place, if any, of the group in which such name belongs."

Election Law Provision

The state law designed to put the constitutional provision in effect provides names on the entire ballot must be rotated once for each name in the largest group of candidates on the ballot for any one office.

Thus, if there are five candidates for mayor in a partisan contest and that is the largest group of candidates for any one office on the ballot, in every five ballots "Joe Doakes'" name would appear first once, second once, third once, fourth once and fifth once.

But, if only "John Doe" and "Richard Roe" are in a different race on the same ballot, Doe's name would appear first three times and Roe's name would be first only twice. That is because the names originally are listed alphabetically.

The Supreme Court must decide whether Roe is getting a fair break under the state law—whether the ballot lists Roe's name at the top of his group of candidates so far as is "reasonably possible."

Outgrowth Of Protest

The case apparently is an outgrowth of an election protest filed by former Rep. Walter B. Huber, an Akron Democrat, who was defeated for reelection last year by Rep. William H. Ayres, a Republican, in the 14th district. Huber contended the fact Ayres' name appeared first among congressional candidates more often than those of the other two men in the three-man race was a factor in Ayres' victory.

The House elections committee upheld Ayre's election.

The case now before the Supreme Court was filed by Huber's attorneys.

The Court of Appeals of Summit County upheld their contention that present Ohio law doesn't conform to the constitutional direction The court ruled all candidates' names must be rotated equally on the ballots.

If the court announces its decision before Nov. 6, it would affect many of the ballots already printed. And if the court upholds the law, the election will proceed according to plan.

King-Sized Headache

If the present rotation system is held unconstitutional, however, millions of ballots, printed at a cost of many thousands of dollars, may have to be scrapped. Ballots would have to be printed in "perfect rotation." And, many a printer in Ohio would have a king-sized headache by election day.

Let's take a sample:

A city has four races. There are nine candidates in the biggest race, five in the next, three in the next and two in the next. That would be 45, since both nine and five can be divided into that figure with nothing left over. The figure 45 would work all right for the third race, which has three candidates.

But whoa! Divide 45 by two and there is one left over. So, you double the 45 and get 90—the lowest common denominator for all four races.

Therefore, 90 different ballots must be printed and assembled in pads, one of each to a pad.

Disabled and absentee voters already are casting their votes on ballots already printed. But, even if the law under which these ballots were printed is thrown out, the votes are expected to stand.

any federal official who deals in influence or engages in shady tough legal practices.

2. A law requiring Congress members and all federal officials earning $10,000 a year or more to make public disclosure of amounts and sources of their income. President Truman recently made a similar proposal which was received by Congress with extreme coolness.

3. An "obviously needed" tightening of the laws against giving and taking bribes.

4. Creation of a citizens organization to serve as a watchdog over government in general.

Douglas announced that bills covering the first three points would be introduced shortly, and that he would press for Senate aproval of the ethics commission bill.

Royal Couple Tour Prairies

REGINA, Sask., Oct. 17—(AP)—The Royal British visitors headed deeper into the wheat fields and flat prairies of Canada today after an evening of Canadian culture at a classical ballet in wind-whipped Winnipeg.

Ending their hectic 11-hour visit in Winnipeg and St. Boniface, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh boarded the royal train last night for Regina. They spent today inspecting the wheat-growing belt, then move on to Calgary and the cow country.

After a tumultous welcome to Winnipeg by more than 200,000 persons who braved biting winds and snow flurries, the couple last night attended a command performance of the city's ballet.

Talk on Sales Service Heard By Rotary Club

C. E. Quigley of Dayton, manager of special markets Department of Frigidaire Division of General Motors, addressed the Rotary Club on creative selling, at its weekly luncheon yesterday at Hotel Harding.

Mr. Quigley has spent 35 years engaged in what he calls "down-to-earth selling." He has been with the General Motors Co. for 35 years, 25 of them being in his present position with the Frigidaire Division.

He said the first commandment of selling is "Know Your Product.

He told his audience: "Knowledge generates enthusiasm and self-confidence, which is vitally necessary to a top flight salesman." He remarked that the road to successful selling is not easy and that a salesman must be prepared not to let a turndown make him sitdown."

"Remember," he said, "the world steps aside to make way for the man who acts as if he knows where he is going."

Mr. Quigley explained the differences between a prospect and a buyer.

"Everyone is a prospect," he said, "for the only qualifications of a prospect are that he must have a definite need for a certain product or service. A buyer, however, must have not only the need for a certain product, but the knowledge of that need, the certainty that there is a product to satisfy that need, money or credit to purchase it and the conviction that the product or service is worth it's price." Mr. Quigley's favorite definition of selling is: "Selling is the art of converting a prospect into a buyer."

Guests of the club other than the speaker were Lou Carlson of Tecumseh, Mich., and Robert A. Sharpe of Chicago, Ill.

Student reporter from the Harding High School journalism classes was Sandra Jevas.

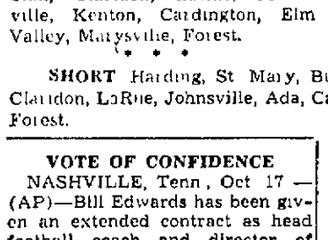
Ruling on Star Tackle Irks Hayes

through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

NOON WHISTLE. The Marion Star "Guessperts" bring in an outsider as guest "pigskin picker" for this week's forecasts.

She is Miss Nancy Noon, Star reporter, who, once wrote a column in college known as "The Noon Whistle"

An avid football follower, Miss Noon has seen several of Harding and St. Mary home games and knows that a T-formation does not necessarily mean an afternoon with the ladies



Undaunted by the "board" which rates Harding a slight favorite over Findlay on the Trojan field tomorrow night, Miss Noon foresees an upset and picks Findlay. However, she goes along with the others in predicting St. Mary will defeat Richwood here at the stadium Friday night

On the basis of the decorous statement, "ladies first," Miss Noon's predictions will be given first

KICKOFF LIST: Harding at Findlay Richwood at St Mary, Bucyrus at Crestline, Upper Sandusky at Galion, Carey at Tiffin Columbian, Mt. Gilead at Cardington, Big Walnut at Elm Valley, Marysville at Hilliards, Caledonia at Claridon, LaRue at Marengo, Johnsville at Sparta, Ada at Kenton, Columbus Grove at Forest.

Says Avila Failed To Join All-Star Squad

EL PASO, Tex, Oct 17—(AP)—Promoter Ray Murphy says he will file a claim against Beto Avila, Cleveland Indian second baseman, because the Mexican has failed to join Murphy's All-Star squad.

Murphy told newsmen he intends to submit a full report to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick about the incident.

He said Avila had promised him in a telephone conversation yesterday that he definitely would meet the barnstorming majors in El Paso.

Avila did not show up in Denver where he was supposed to play Sunday

LOOSED BOMBARDMENT. Southern Methodist University's lanky Fred Benners, shown practising his specialty in a training session, is the bombardier whose passing wizardry reduced the Notre Dame football team to a state of helplessness over the weekend. The 6-foot, 3-inch pitching phenom completed 22 of 44 passes for 336 yards and four touchdowns in leading his team to a 27-20 upset over the favored Irish

Wire Editor Again Tops Grid "Experts"

Bill Stanbro, Marion Star wire editor, who usually concerns himself with world events, heads the list for the fourth straight week in the "Star Gazers" grid pickings. He tied with Bill Diem, city editor, last weekend, picking 13 correctly, missing on only two and tying one

A L McClain and John Short of the sports department brought up the rear with a 12-3-1 record. Both picked Lima South to upset Harding in a forecast they would rather forget.

Stanbro's percentage is an amazing .800.

Cardington Ace Leads Team To Mt. Gilead

Morrow County football followers will see the second leading prep scorer in the state when Cardington's Pirates go after their 15th straight victory against Mt Gilead Friday night on the Indian home field

Bill Henthorne, brilliant Pirate back, has tallied 126 points in five games and figures to up his total against the winless Indians.

Mt. Gilead put up a stiff battle, however, in losing to Elm Valley by the close score of 13-6 last week.

Included in Cardington's victories this season are wins over Utica, Johnstown, Big Walnut, Richwood, and Centerburg.

Indians Sign Catcher From Coast League

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians added a new catcher to their roster today, Joe Montalvo of Rio Pieandras, Puerto Rico, probably the tallest receiver in the majors.

The Indians acquired Montalvo in exchange for Clarence Maddern in a trade with the Seattle Raniers of the Pacific Coast League. Maddern was used sparingly this year as a utility outfielder and pinch hitter.

Montalvo, who stands 6 feet four and weighs 205 pounds, hit five homers this season for Seattle, drove in 49 runs and ended with a .287 batting average.

He was born in New York City of Puerto Rican parents.

Claims Rivals Protested Use To Air Force

COLUMBUS, O., Oct 17—(AP)—Woody Hayes, the usually jovial coach of Ohio State University's football Buckeyes, has an ugly suspicion about the way he lost his best tackle—Joe Campanella.

Before the 1951 season started, the O.S.U. publicity staff circulated the country with stories calling Campanella an All-American prospect The 226-pound letterman lived up to his rave notices in the first two games

But last Saturday, just before State's third game (and Big Ten opener)) at Wisconsin, Campanella was ordered off the squad by the Air Force. State, then, ranked No 9 in the Associated Press national poll, was lucky to salvage a 6-6 tie.

Hayes wondered out loud to newsmen about the Air Force ruling yesterday

"I would be very, very interested," he said, "to know how many were affected by that ruling. You can draw any conclusions from that you want to"

Stationed Nearby

Campanella joined the Air Force after winning his letter at State last season. He was stationed at nearby Lockbourne Air Base

He arranged with his commanding officer to attend Ohio State this fall during the day and handle his Air Force duties at night Joe received permission to play varsity football on condition nothing interfered with his military duties

As Woody Hayes tells it, eight Big Ten schools promptly let out a howl to the league's commissioner, Tug Wilson. Wilson came here, conducted an investigation, and, says Hayes, found everything "completely okay"

Ohio opened with a 7-0 win over Southern Methodist but then dropped a thriller 24-20 as Michigan State pushed over two last-quarter touchdowns While Michigan State is a member of the Big Ten, games with it don't count in the standings until 1953—when the league's newest member has its first full league schedule.

Leaves Impression

Hayes didn't come right out and say so yesterday, but he left the impression that the eight Big Ten schools who protested Campanella were the ones with a chance for the league title And, obviously, if they had a player of Campanella's air force status, they wouldn't be protesting Campanella's status to Tug Wilson.

It didn't make Woody any happier when the Air Force said in Washington the ruling against its personnel playing college athletics was prompted by Ohio State's use of Campanella.

Sent to all Air Force commands, the directive says that "no individual attending a civil educational institution will under any circumstances be permitted to participate in the athletic programs of the institution""

The Air Force wasn't saying whether Hayes was correct—and Campanella was the only player affected by the ruling.

Vernon Favored in Football Round Robin at Stadium

Marion's three junior high school grid teams will tangle in a round robin fray tonight at Harding Stadium.

Each team will play a full two halves. The action will begin at 7 p.m. when Edison meets State street and in the second half play, the Edison crew will meet Vernon Vernon and State Street will be pitted in the final half Coach Jim Lawler's Vernon team will go into the play as favorites since it already holds decisions over both teams Results will have no effect on the Tri-City League standings.

Tickets will be on sale at the stadium box office.

S.M.U., Irish Set Record For Passing

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—(AP)—Southern Methodist's victory over Notre Dame last Saturday resulted in more than miseries for the Irish—it also caused statisticians to scurry for their record books to find out if more passes ever were thrown in a single game There weren't.

Figures released today by the National Collegiate Athelétic Bureau revealed that two all-time records were set It was the first time that two major teams have tossed 40 or more passes against each other, and the two-team total of 89 tosses set a new mark for passing in one game

The Mustangs flipped 45 times, and the Irish came right back with 44 of their own while winding up on the short end of a 27-20 count.

Southern Methodist's total of 45 was the third highest in history eclipsed only by Loyola of Los Angeles' 50 and S M U.'s 47 both last year.

Ohio State Fans, Remember Millner?

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17—(AP)—Wayne Millner, who in 1935 won gridiron glory for catching a pass from William Shakespeare—the football player, of course—is the Philadelphia Eagles' new head coach.

Club President James Clark announced yesterday that Alvin (Bo) McMillin was retiring for at least the rest of the season because of ill health.

Millner's great catch 16 years ago won a game for Notre Dame over Ohio State, and thrilled the football world

Cage Scandal Expected To Spread Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—(AP)—The college basketball scandal is expected to spread to more schools and players according to Assistant District Attorney Vincent O'Connor.

O'Connor made this assertion yesterday following the arrest of Joseph Benintende, 42, alleged king of a basketball "fix" ring. O'Connor, however, gave no indication as to how many colleges or players might be involved, or when details would be made public.

The scandal so far has involved 31 players from six teams, Bradley, Toledo, C.C.N.Y., Manhattan, Long Island University and New York University.

O'Connor indicated that Benintende was "singing" on colleges involved but not mentioned so far in the scandal.

Between 1940 and 1950 the passenger-carrying railroads increased their business about 30 percent.

Wrigley Called To Air Views

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—Phil Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs and the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League team, was today's top-billed witness before congressmen investigating whether baseball is a monopoly.

The house judiciary subcommittee handling the probe centered all day yesterday on the farm system.

Leslie O'Connor, a Chicago lawyer who is counsel for the Pacific Coast League, was the chief witness. O'Connor was for 23 years a close adviser to baseball's first commissioner, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis. He told the congressmen Landis did not like the farm system, but that he, O'Connor liked it even less.

O'Connor said the farm system is "on its way" to destroying the structure of organized baseball. This, he said, was because the farm system allows major teams to hold down good players (if a farm club, for instance, signs a good second baseman, but the major club already has one, the former may be put into "cold storage"); and because minor league farm teams lose revenue through inability to sell players.

The farm system allows major league teams to own, or control, minor league teams.

But O'Connor said he did not know how baseball could drop the farm system now, without causing considerable upheaval.

The first electric train in the U. S. made its first trial run on April 29, 1951.

Monarchs Play Hilliards Friday

London High School's Red Raiders need only one more victory in the Mid-Six League to assure themselves of at least a tie for the championship.

The undefeated loop leaders, who squeezed past Westerville, 7-0, in the big billing last week, take on second division material this Friday when they travel to Grove City (0-3).

The league spotlight will be focused on Hilliards newly erected stadium where the hometown Wildcats play host to Marysville's Monarchs in a battle for second place. Both outfits have 2-1 records, and neither can afford to suffer another setback without being eliminated from the race.

Westerville, also with two victories in three starts, lines up against winless Worthington (0-3) on the latter's field in the third league fray.

Predicts State Will Defeat Indiana, 20-7

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Oct. 17—(AP)—Peering into a crystal ball knocked slightly lop-sided last weekend by Southern Methodist, Michigan and Miami of Florida, here we go again:

Wisconsin 14, Purdue 7—the law of averages has to give those brisk Badgers a Big Ten win. With a home field advantage, the Boilermakers could surprise.

Illinois 20, Washington 18—the unbeaten Illini encounter a high-geared Huskies' team that has rolled up 159 points in four games.

Michigan 24, Iowa 13—Michigan always has had Iowa's grid number, losing only twice in 16 meetings.

Ohio State 20, Indiana 7—if Indiana has a Sunday punch, it hasn't shown yet. The Buckeyes learned against Wisconsin the Big Ten is as tough as always. They'll be ready for the Hoosiers.

Others in a hurry:

Northwestern 21, Navy 20; Notre Dame 34, Pittsburgh 7; Michigan State 1, Penn State 14; Minnesota 13, Nebraska 7; Marquette 28, Tulsa 21.

Seventeen dealers from the county attended the meeting, which R. G. Ardrey, president, conducted.

The railway passenger industry in 1950 received $267 million from the government for carrying the U. S. mails.

Marion Horses Win on Track In California

Three Marion harness horses recently showed their heels to the pack in the opening session of the Hollywood track at Oakland, Calif.

The horses, owned by Dr C. G. Smith, won honors in three races. Henry Mack finished first in one pacing event with a time of 2.06 flat while Mr. Richwood won his pace with a 2:07 time. Power Glow, another pacer, came in second in his race in 2.11. The horses were driven by Dick Williams.

Other horses owned by Dr. Smith are Virtuous Abbey, Calendar and Zarbo Ansac.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

There seems to be some Republican criticism of plans to build a memorial library for Mr. Truman . . . They seem to feel they get more out of hearing rooms than reading rooms.

But the library was not to be a public project and its sponsors point out that private contributions of the President's friends and appointees would not be any drain on public finances.

It is now established that quite a few public servants have done very well on modest government salaries and could easily afford the price of a few shelves . . . or a six-story wing.

And the memorial idea is not something new and different . . . it has always been the custom of presidents or their friends, starting with Mr. Roosevelt, to provide for a memorial.

A few early presidents were thoughtless about these things . . . Washington provided no memorial for himself but he was an odd sort of a man, wouldn't even take a third term.
